Dr. Conzatti reported on the following items:

On February 8th, a soft launch of the MWBE (Minority and Women-Owned Business Enterprises) Center was attended by approximately 150 members of the County, the community at large, faculty, staff and administrators, labor leaders, and members of the Board of Trustees. Workshops were offered on degree programs in entrepreneurship, starting a business as an MWBE, and career counseling.

NCC has received $44,650 from SUNY System Administration to provide support for 38 low-income student-parents who join our ASAP program over the next three years beginning in Spring 2024 and concluding in Fall 2026.

Workforce Development was awarded a Training Pathways Track Grant of $150,000.00. The grant provides funding for SUNY community colleges to operate workforce development/job training programs to address training needs for businesses and organizations in local communities.

On February 9th, the College hosted a legislative breakfast attended by State representatives from approximately 12 districts. The major message was meeting the 33-1/3 obligation of funding to institutions, which amounts to over $21 million for NCC.

There are many unknowns regarding the budget that will crystallize over the next two months or so. In preparation, steps will need to be taken in case the State and County do not provide additional operating funds. Without additional funding and implementation of drastic cost-saving measures, the College will not maintain financial stability through next year.

Speakers

Jason Gorman, Chair, Academic Senate, encouraged the Board to ask administration for an analysis on class cancellations for what we could have brought in with revenues based upon projections from last year's enrollment growth flow. He believes, based on his projections, that, although the class cancellations saved $1,000,000, running more classes could have represented unrealized multiple millions. He requested that administration provide a documented rationale for class cancellations, and, when possible, initiate new processes through appropriate committees of the Academic Senate as part of shared governance. He also urged the Board to invite the Chair of the Academic Senate to speak on curriculum issues during the Academic,

Student Affairs & Enrollment Management committee meeting when its warranted. For example, the new degree program UX Design, which went before the committee and was tabled on November 17, 2023, was specifically designed not to cost the College any money. Currently, there is a certificate that leads into the UX Design program, with 200 students taking courses as part of that degree.

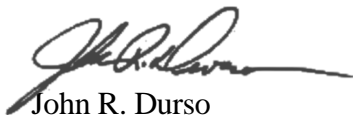

David Stern, NCCFT VP Classroom Faculty, read a statement on behalf of Faren Siminoff, NCCFT President, in which she requested that the agreed-upon financial package in the approved NCCFT contract be swiftly implemented and that the members be given a date for its implementation; questioned why the administration has prioritized a $20 million renovation of the Tower when the buildings where students learn and study continue to be an environmental disaster, which deters retention; why the $5.4 million SUNY Grant NCC received two years ago for so-called workforce development curriculum in plumbing and similar trades has yet to be utilized; and the wisdom of focusing on offering outdated 20th century workforce development at a community college rather than investing in fields such as accounting, semiconductor-related professions, renewable energy, digital and graphic media, and the expansion of healthcare programs, which studies show are the real future of workforce development. It is her belief that were the Board to engage with the faculty leadership, NCC could move forward to once again become the State's best community college.

Chair Gardyn announced the next Board of Trustees' Committee meetings are scheduled for Tuesday, March 12, 2024 at 5:00 p.m. It is anticipated the Board will open the public session between 6:15 and 6:30 p.m.

Chair Gardyn requested a motion to adjourn the meeting. Trustee Durso moved the motion; seconded by Trustee Tuman. Motion carried 7-0.

Meeting adjourned at 8:55 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,

John R. Durso
